OATH C) THE ROMAN CATHOLIC BISHOPS. "A Kentucky Catholic," we have referred to the oaths of the Archbishops and Bishops as in consistert with the duty of paramon tallegi ance to the Government of the United States The editor of the Nashville Gazette called re tly upon Bishop Miles of Nasl ville to pub lish the oath that he himself had taken and tha all other Cathotic Bishops take; and Bishop M actually had the im rudence (for we can c n aider t noth g else) to juble h it under hi Nicht o can of Tennessee. We give it to

and deadly hostility to the city, and seems deauthority, the Sag-Nicht organs would unques but, as we have said, the publication of it come read it The Roman Catholic Bishops, as w see, take a solemn oath in the temple of God t observe with their whole etrength, and caus others to observe, "the decrees, ordinances, dis positions, and mandates" of the Pope of Rome. There is in the oath no specification or distinction as to the character of the decrees, ordi nancee, dispositione, and mandates of the Por which the Bishops shall obey and with their whole might cause others to obey. There is nothing to confine the oath to church affairs to the exclusion of matters that may be supposed to be political. The oath is to obry all the decrees, inances, dispositions, and mandates of th Pope, the whole character of them being left to the sole discretion of his Holiness. If the Sov ereign Pontifichooses to Issue a bull In relation to affairs in the U ited States just like that New Grenada, assuming to wield over our coun try the polica power of an unbridled despot the Catholic Bishops of the United States must by their oath obey, and try with all their might to make others obey. They or some of them may wapapers, that they are not bound to yield obedience to their God upon earth in poli ical aattere, but they are-there is no exemption or discrimination in their oath. They do not rese n that fearful document that they must obey and cause others to obey the decrees ordinance the j y of seeing her h wed to the du t. upon cond tion that his Holiness does not inteund hy an awful oath to obey him in all hige.

selves before God to obey and make others obey the will of a foreign deepot, but it is not more startling than true. This is done; it is a part of the papal cystem; it is the very foundation of that system—the thing upon which the whole the paper system—the thing upon which the whole papel superstructure stands.

The oath taken by Bishop Miles of Nashvile has been taken by Bishop Spalding of Louiswile and by all the Roman Catholic Bishops in the standard of the the United States. They are sworm to obey unqualifiedly the decompted to ask, and his courteous auditors must have been termited to wonder, where this profound and the paper of the Pope. There is an inconsistency between this oath of allegiance to the Pope and their oath of allegiance to the United States, and we all know which of the two oaths raust always be disregarded in the event of a practical collision between them. If there is a mental reservation on the part of the Bishops in the taking of either of the oaths of allegiance to the Disson between them. If there is a mental reservation on the part of the Bishops in the taking of either of the oaths of allegiance to the Country—on the taking of either of the oaths, we all know that it is in the taking of either of the oaths, we all know that it is in the taking of either of the oaths of allegiance to the Country—on the taking of either of the oath of allegiance to the country—on the taking of either of the oath of allegiance to the country—on the taking of either of the oath of allegiance to the country—on the taking of the political and not the country on the taking of the political and not the country on the taking of the political and not the country on the part of the stating of the political and not the country on the part of the stating of the political and not the country on the part of the stating of the political and not the country on the part of the stating of the United States.
